As Mr. Foley said this, I thought.
"What a poor student of the situation, which has brought about the putting up of men and women to judge breeds about which they know nothing. What great injustices to exhibitors and general harm to the dog game can be done by judges who do not know the breed under them."

One case was recently brought to my

the extenuating circumstances which appear to have justified the club in using Mr. Bradshaw as judge. The scheduled official was sick in bed, the judging had been put over a day, and all the exhibitors wanted Mr. Bradshaw. As THE NEW YORK HERALD said at the time—a statement that has been widely quoted in the kennel publications—the Golden Gate club acted purely for what it considered the best interest of the same. Still a rule is a rule and must be respected.

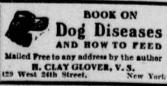

In commenting on the situation, Mr. Ackerman said, "What are we going to do? You would think from some of the letters I have received from influential people in the dog game regarding this case that the Golden Gate Kennel Club had committed murder. It seems to me, at that, the American Kennel Club lost sight of how a few of us stuck together and gave shows in competition with the midependent club that grey out of the than $2,000 into the importation of this judging of the type that has been seen in some places in the East. This so-called judging is simply a farce I do not think that any member of the license committee should hold a judging license. It makes it difficult for him to deal properly and justly with the cases coming before him."

I cannot agree with Mr. Ackerman on this point. I think the dog game needs every competent judge it has. George Foley, manager of the Kiwanis Kennel Club show at Hartford this week, told me he considered "the only hardships in the recent revocation of licenses came from taking up the licenses of George Thomas and McClure Halley. The others do not matter."

J. J. Holgate has gone back to England. He was here long enough to take in the Westminster and Boston shows before he sailed on the Aquitania. In a note of farewell he said, "I am glad to see there are still a few real eness in the game for the love of the dogs." He hopes to come again in the fall. Before sailing he obtained a number of commissions from American clients which should result in bringing some more real good dogs to this country.

Victory for Sancho.

The victory of Ledgeland's Sancho, the red chow owned and bred by Mrs. David Wagstaff, over the Greenacre Kennel's Blue Winkle at the Hartford show did not surprise me. When this pair met at the Newark show and
